

PAY AS YOU FIGHT PLAN OF FINANCIER

Bernard Baruch Outlined Program for Senate Committee

Washington, March 27.—(AP)—A program for "paying as you fight" in the event the United States becomes involved in another war was advocated today before the senate munitions committee by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the World War Industries Board.

Such a plan—to be executed by taxation and price-fixing—would have generations unborn, as well as ourselves, untold misery," the tall white-haired witness asserted to an attentive committee.

Previously, replying to what he termed "insinuations and innuendos" against him, he asserted that when he was called to war time government service he sold "at a heavy cost to my fortune" all "holdings that even remotely touched upon my official duties."

Asks End to Insinuations.

The New York financier, recently named by President Roosevelt as head of a committee to devise ways of taking excess profits out of war, asked the committee to "put an end" to the insinuations or to "find me guilty of violation of the trust and confidence imposed upon me during that period."

Baruch endorsed in principle the committee war time plan drawn by John T. Flynn, economist and writer, by which virtually all individual profits above $10,000 a year would be taken by taxation and industrial profits would be held at a low figure.

"Briefly," the financier said, "my proposal is that congress, after it declares an emergency exists shall authorize the president to clamp a ceiling down over the whole price structure in effect on or about the date of declaration of war, when there is a fair relationship among human activities and their rewards, and make it unlawful thereafter to charge a higher price for any service or thing."

Adjustments Provided.

"But, coincident with that, a fair price commission shall be set up to make adjustments upwards or downwards as necessity may require. Money, like other things, would be controlled and directed, and told for what purpose it could be used and the charge for such use."

His wealth in the war time period was estimated by the New York financier at $9,500,000 plus "some cash balances, the size of which I cannot recall."

In 1917, he said his income declined almost 75 per cent from the previous year; in 1918 and 1919 he reported no taxable income "as I have sold large portions of my holdings, showing actual losses each year, and reinvested the money in Liberty bonds. My income from them was somewhere around $200,000. . . . I made absolutely no purchases of securities except bonds, mostly government bonds."

No Market Transactions.

"From the time I entered the service until I left in July, 1919, I was not a participant either directly or indirectly in any market transactions."

He summarized his income tax reports to show that in 1916 on an income of $2,501,028 he paid $261,169; in 1917 on an income of $617,061 he paid $263,762.

For 1918 and 1919 he reported losses, recalling to the committee that he resigned virtually all his business connections when he took over the direction of war time industry.

"Never from the moment I was called to the government service did I have a dollar's worth of interest in any concern manufacturing munitions of war," he said.

Man Detained in Rock Island Wanted Here?

Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber is investigating a rumor that a man giving two names, said to have been detained at Rock Island, had stated that he had shot a police officer in a city near DeKalb, Ill. Rock Island police told the Dixon chief in a long distance telephone conversation that no such report had been made with the department, and a further investigation is now under way. Reports reached DeKalb police of the rumor said to have started in Rock Island. The investigation by Chief Van Bibber was started to determine the origin with a view of possibly apprehending the stranger who fired at Dixon police two weeks ago as he ran through Bluff Park after being forced to abandon a car owned by Paul James, which he had taken when he forced the owner from the machine on the Rock Island Highway north of Ashton.

REAL SPENDING

Washington Mar. 27.—(AP)—Government spending in the current financial year has passed the $5,000,000,000 point.

Todays treasury statement covering operations through March 25, showed outlays since July 1 of $5,006,456,143.

More than half this amount went to expenditures classed as "emergency" which took $2,574,490,602. General government expenses amounted to $2,431,966,140.

Total expenditures for the corresponding period last year were $4,809,433,397.

The current deficit of $217,290,383 was almost a quarter of a billion dollars under the comparable figure of last year when the government was "in the red" to the extent of $2,428,421,684.

Increased receipts accounted for the lower deficit.

Through March 25 the government had collected $2,827,165,760 as compared with $2,281,193,713 last year. The largest increase was shown by income taxes which were $195,000,000 ahead of last year's figures.

CHICAGO WOMAN ACQUITTED OF HUSBAND'S END

Jury Disbelieves Claim Mrs. Erickson Hired Husband's Slayer

Chicago, March 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Erickson, mother of six children, was free today, acquitted of charges of plotting her husband's murder with a 19-year-old youth for insurance money.

Criminal courts jury acquitted the 40-year-old widow late last night after more than six hours deliberation, ending a court session that was termed the most dramatic in recent annals with the defendants six children present to hear prosecutors demand the death penalty for their mother.

The state charged Mrs. Erickson with hiring James Senese, 19, to kill her husband, George, operator of a tavern, so that she might collect $6,100 insurance money and marry another. Erickson was shot to death Dec. 22 as he approached the rear door of his home.

Defense Charged Holdup.

Senese testified he was hired by Mrs. Erickson on the promise of a $500 share in the insurance, but the defense contended Erickson was shot during an attempted robbery, and that Senese was attempting to shift blame for the crime.

Her stoicism under police questioning after her husband's death won for Mrs. Erickson the sobriquet "Iron Anna" but she sobbed and elminated the drama-enlivened session yesterday by fainting.

When the acquittal verdict was returned, Mrs. Erickson said radiantly:

"I just want to get home to my children."

Costs Government $1,000 Yearly to Keep Each Member of Conservation Corps; F. D. R. Wants Plan Continued

Washington, March 27.—(AP)—Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, has directed tentative selection of 110,000 replacements in the corps for probable enlistment next week.

He said army corps area commanders had been instructed not to issue papers, however, pending passage of the $4,880,000,000 work bill, which would continue the CCC another two years.

Authorization for the corps expires March 31, and officials said that although money remained, it could not be expended legally.

EXPECT HOPKINS TO BE WORLD'S BIGGEST SPENDER

Roosevelt Likely to Entrust Him With Four Billion Work Fund

Washington, March 27.—(AP)—Resting today in Florida's sunshine, Harry L. Hopkins was believed to be revolving in his mind just what he will do when—as the capital expects—he becomes the biggest spender on earth.

The Federal Emergency Relief administrator, who held long and significant conferences with President Roosevelt on the train that carried the chief executive southward to his fishing vacation, is named in a high administration quarter as the choice for big boss of the $4,880,000,000 works and relief program.

If events should confirm this forecast the poor boy who rose from an Iowa harness-maker's shop through the ranks of social workers will conduct the most gigantic test of clashing theories ever attempted.

Conflicting Claims.

Friends of the works program—which has now been sent to a conference between Senate and House—say that it will put 3,500,000 destitute people to work, speed recovery by stimulating private industry, and that the debt incurred can easily be paid off when good times come back. Critics say that no one can spend $4,880,000,000 wisely in a short time, that even if the money is spent quickly it will not do the things claimed for it, and that the debt will endanger the government's credit.

The vast new program is being planned at a time when the Federal reserve board finds that industrial output for February lagged behind the ordinary seasonal upturn for the month. Motor cars were an exception; they were being manufactured at an unusual rate. But the board announced that its index—containing allowances for seasonal variation—declined from 91 per cent of the 1923-25 average in January to 89 per cent in February.

Speed to be Emphasized.

The emphasis in the coming works drive, informed sources said, was to be speed. That was believed to be a reason that Hopkins was mentioned for the chief responsibility, rather than Secretary Ickes, who is expected in authoritative quarters to play a comparatively minor role. Ickes is noted for caution and his handling of the $3,300,000,000 public works appropriation led some adherents of the "pump-priming" theory to contend the money was not spent fast enough.

Conferees from both Senate and House, to whom the huge bill was entrusted yesterday over the opposition of silverites in the latter chamber, were expected to knock out the Thomas silver inflation rider attached by the Senate, and to make other changes.

Meanwhile a PWA inventory of possible work making projects listed 128,000 of them that would cost $19,500,000,000. Perhaps $1,000,000,000 is expected to be spent on a national, coordinated land-use program, of which Rexford G. Tugwell is mentioned as the probable head.

She was a former president of the 19th district of the Federation of Illinois Women's Clubs and had long been active in civic affairs.

Mrs. R. W. Kerchner Passed Away Today

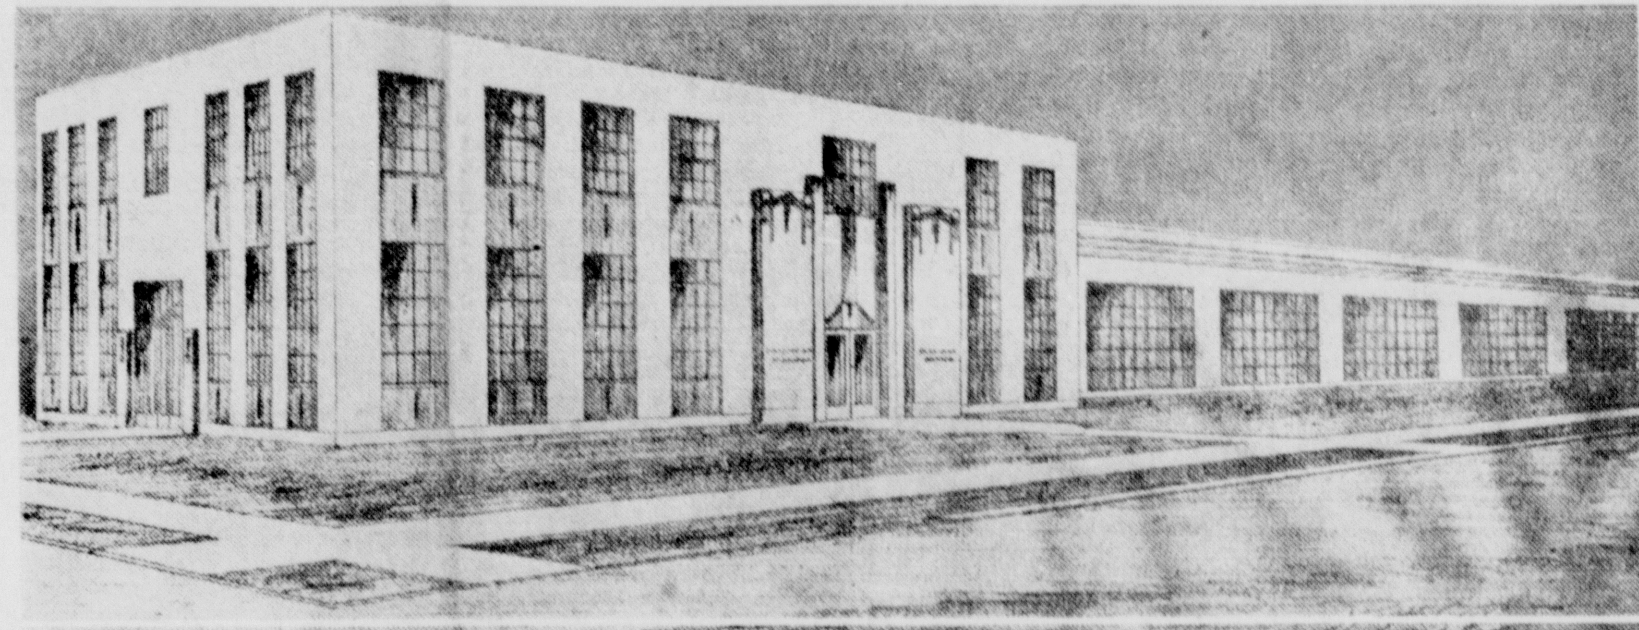

Mrs. R. W. Kerchner, 903 Third St., passed away at her home at 9:30 o'clock this morning after a lingering illness. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today and, with the obituary, will be published later.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald turned from the treasury bench to speak to his old friend several minutes.

If the work bill is not enacted by Saturday, officials said, there may be delay in enlisting new members. Authorized strength, now 370,000, is to be increased to 600,000 immediately after the passage of the work bill.

President Roosevelt recently expressed the view that the work of the CCC should be made a "permanent" government activity. Most recent figures placed the total cost of two years activity at $600,000,000 with an average annual cost for each corps member at $1,000.

State Highway Division's New Building in Dixon

Above is shown a reproduction of the state architect's drawing of the front elevation of the state highway division's office and garage building, to be erected this summer on the recently acquired Gedney Park property on Depot avenue. The two-story main building, 63x78, of reinforced concrete and brick construction, will house the district offices, heating plant, paint shop, machine shop and supply departments. The one-story section, 60x145 feet, will house the garage for the state trucks working out of the local headquarters.

ARTILLERY WILL HELP FARM BOY

His Appeal for Team of Horses Meets Response of Artillerymen

Chicago, March 27.—(AP)—It's taking the entire United States Field Artillery to do it, but Buffalo and Reno, a couple of bewildered artillery horses, are bound for a "soft" job before the plow on a farm at Volin, S. D.

Buffalo and Reno were loaded onto an army truck and started on a 550-mile journey to Volin yesterday amid a rousing farewell at Fort Sheridan because 12-year-old LeRoy Johnson wrote a letter on March 1 and because the United States Field Artillery backed him up.

Asked Gift of Horses.

"I am writing to see if you might have an old team of artillery horses that are too old to be of any use, that you could give away," LeRoy said in a letter addressed to the "U. S. War Department (Artillery)" and posted to Washington, D. C. "You see," he added, "my dad has a farm here of 300 acres, with a big mortgage on it, and we have only one team of old mares, one gray and one black. I am 13 years this coming June and my brother Roger will be 11 this spring and us boys would like to help our dad do some farm work this year. My dad says he cannot afford to buy any horses so I thought I would try and see if I could not help him some way. P. S. My dad's name—Charley J. Johnson."

Chief Issues Appeal.

On March 6 Major General Upson Birnie, Jr., chief of the field artillery, wrote to LeRoy saying among other things that "the government requires that these devoted and loyal old veterans of the artillery be sold, and for that reason none can be given you," but LeRoy wasn't told that despite this, a way was found to comply with the requirements. An appeal is being sent to each officer and enlisted man in the artillery, including those in Hawaii, the Philippines and Panama, asking an average of three cents to cover the cost of the horses sold yesterday at public auction.

A newspaper representative bought them and shortly thereafter Buffalo and Reno were on their way while newspaper and movie cameras recorded the event for posterity.

The price was $35.

British Author Made Governor of Canada

London, March 27.—(AP)—The appointment by King George of John Buchan, British author, as Governor-General of Canada was announced today at Buckingham Palace.

When Buchan entered the House of Commons for the day's session, he received warm greetings and congratulations by his fellow members.

Hitler Demands Austrian Union, Aerial Force Parity With Britain, France

Navy of 400,000 Tons Also Among German Leader's Plans

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Authoritative European sources today gave an inside version of what is supposed to have happened in the conference in Berlin between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary.

They said Hitler demanded gun-ship, man-for-man and air-ship-for-airplane parity with other European powers and aerial superiority over Soviet Russia. These military demands were said to include an increase in the size of the German navy, although only a moderate enlargement was asked.

Reported Demands.

In tabulated form, the reported demands were:

1. An economic union with Austria;
2. The elimination of Pomorze—the "Polish corridor" which under the treaty of Versailles gives Poland a seacoast;
3. The return of some Czechoslovakian territory with the repatriation of 3,500,000 Germans there;
4. Aviation strength equal to the air forces of Great Britain or France, the level to be governed by the air strength of Soviet Russia;
5. A navy of about 400,000 tons.

May Save Condemned.

Thousands of Germans in Koenigsberg, East Prussia, demonstrated against the death sentences passed by a Lithuanian court on four Nazis who were found guilty of participation in a plot to return Memel to Germany. Hitler was expected to bring diplomatic pressure to bear in an effort to save the Nazis from death.

Soviet Russia was awaiting with expectancy the forthcoming visit of Capt. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, fresh from the Hitler conference in Berlin. The government newspaper Ivestia published an invitation to Great Britain to cooperate with Russia in erecting a barrier against "tendencies toward an explosion in world peace."

More Room Needed at Joliet's Prison

Joliet, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Warden Frank D. Whipp of the Joliet penitentiary said that conditions are overcrowded today at both the Stateville and old Joliet prisons and that a steadily increasing flow of new prisoners is raising the prison population toward an all time high.

Population of the two prisons total 5,565, he said, and less than half of the prisoners are occupied with daily tasks. About 1,000 extra prisoners are housed in each prison.

Each week from 30 to 40 new prisoners arrive from Cook county alone, the Warden stated, and arrivals are greater than the number released at the termination of sentences or on parole.

"For six months we have been seeking a $2,000,000 appropriation for a new prison near Joliet, but we have not been able to get it," Whipp said.

CHICAGO BABIES GIVEN NEW DEAL

Mayor Kelley Financing Only Service of Kind to Save Little Ones

Chicago, March 27.—(AP)—Chicago's premature babies are going to get a new deal.

Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen today announced two innovations by which he expects hundreds of tiny arrivals will be enabled to survive the danger period following their birth and grow up into useful citizens.

The innovations are:

1. The operation of the world's first municipally owned ambulance service for premature infants.
2. The establishment of a municipally operated station for supplying mother's milk, believed to be the first.

The ambulance, equipped with an incubator and all necessities for caring for young patients, was put into operation a few days ago. The milk clinic will be opened next week in the city health department.

Dr. Bundesen said that nine out of every ten premature babies who die are not breast fed.

Furnished by Mayor.

"That's why we are opening what we believe is the world's first municipally operated station for supplying mother's milk. We intend to see that every premature baby born in Chicago is supplied with mother's milk."

The money for both the ambulance and operating the milk clinic was furnished by Mayor Edward J. Kelly. The story behind his interest in the work was told by the health commissioner.

"About seven years ago the mayor's baby son died," he said. "To assuage his grief he adopted twin boys. They were premature babies and when they became ill, doctors told him that only mother's milk would save their lives. He got in touch with me about midnight and from then until dawn we searched frantically for a source. Finally, at an infants' home in Evanston we found it. Today the boys are as fine a pair of strapping youngsters as you could find."

Japan's Resignation from League of Nations in Effect at Midnight; Who Will Control Mandated Isles?

Geneva, March 27.—(AP)—Japan's resignation from the League of Nations, which will take effect at midnight, raised doubts today as to who ultimately controls the Pacific islands seized from Germany and turned over to Japan under a league mandate.

The Tokyo government was generally expected to retain control over the islands under supervision of the league's mandate commission. The delicate question of sovereignty over the mandated territories, however, raised an issue on which Geneva experts disagree.

Some say that the allied and associated powers, of which the United States was one, are vested with sovereignty over the islands and have entrusted their administration to Japan under league supervision. Hence it was argued, only the allied powers can deprive Japan of her mandate.

Others contend that the allied and associated powers yielded sovereignty over the various mandated territories to the league and that, therefore, the league is entitled to determine what nation shall control them.

ILLINOIS TOLD IT MUST FIND RELIEF MONEY

FERA Deputy Says Taxes of $36,000,000 Must Be Levied

Washington, March 27.—(AP)—A delegation from the Illinois General Assembly was told today by unemployment relief officials that the state must raise $36,000,000 during the coming year by taxation.

To questions by Rep. Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago as to what the Federal government would do if the state refused or failed to raise that amount, Deputy Administrator Aubrey Williams said:

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

"I'm not just sitting here just talking," answered Adamowski. "The situation in Illinois is serious. We've been called into special session six times on this proposition of raising unemployment relief moneys to match the Federal government's allotments."

Doubt State's Ability.

"There are some of us who doubt if Illinois can raise $36,000,000 during the next 12 months."

State Rep. LeRoy Green of Rockford, leader of the Republican party in the assembly, expressed similar opinions.

Dr. Lent Upson, statistician of the Federal emergency relief administration and a former resident of Illinois, said he doubted the foundation of their pessimism.

"Levy an additional two per cent sales tax," he said, "and you'll raise $34,000,000 in a year. Or, levy a ten per cent model tax on real estate and you'll raise $36,000,000. Or why not try an income tax?"

"Have you taken into consideration our constitutional limitations?" asked State Rep. Otis Arnold of Fairfield.

"Up to a certain extent," said Upson. "Perhaps you can't levy an income tax under your constitution as it now stands, but you can do other things."

Hopkins Is Absent.

The conference with Williams and Upson was held by the Illinois group because Harry L. Hopkins, was out of town.

They were anxious to determine, Adamowski said, whether it would be necessary for the state to increase its sales tax one cent, its gasoline tax one cent, and place the products of utility companies under the sales tax.

"I'm not dictating to you what to do," said Williams. "Nobody here is. We can only tell you what it appears necessary for you to do. Our records are yours. There's nothing hidden. We are contributing a substantial amount to your unemployment relief. You must help us. After all, whatever we contribute must come out of the pockets of the tax payer whether it is collected by the Federal or state government."

Preliminary Confab.

The conference today was described by relief officials as being purely preliminary. The administration, it was said, had already made its position clear concerning Illinois. Williams, however, said at the outset of the meeting that he was prepared to answer all questions and present all statistics to the Illinois group so that it might return "fully informed" to Springfield.

With the Illinois delegation were Representatives Parsons, Brennan, Thompson, Schuet, Arnold, Mason, McAndrews, O'Brien, and Igoe, Democrats; and Church, Buckbee, and Reed, Republicans.

Wedded Pretty Girl

Chicago, March 27.—(AP)—John Durrie, an oil salesman of Peoria, Ill., simply couldn't stand it, he told Circuit Judge Finnegan today, when the other boys eyed his wife, Jeannette, 25.

The attractive Mrs. Durrie, who was John's high school sweetheart in Peoria, and was married to him Oct. 5, 1927, charged him in her divorce suit with desertion. She waived alimony. Durrie did not contest the suit and she was given a decree.

Clipper Plane Off on Momentous Trip

Miami, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Off to blaze a new commercial air route linking the United States and the Orient, the giant Pan American clipper plane left here at 8:14 A. M. CST, today on a 3,000 mile flight to San Diego, Calif.

The 19-ton flying boat, which recently completed a 2,500-mile nonstop test flight to the Virgin Islands and return, rose from Biscayne Bay and headed south-west to cross the Gulf of Mexico.

The trip of the clipper plane today will be over water for all but about 100 miles of the 3,000 flight to San Diego.

From Miami, the route follows an airplane compass spanning the Gulf of Mexico, crossing to the Pacific by way of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec to the Mexican port of Acapulco on the Pacific side.

Captain Edwin, in command of the ship, estimated it would require 10 hours to reach Acapulco where the plane will remain overnight.

CRIMINAL CODE OF STATE WILL BE MODERNIZED

Attorneys and Judiciary of State Submit Up-to-Date Criminal Laws

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—To speed up and make more certain the prosecution of law violators, a complete revision of the Illinois criminal code is to be one of the legislature's major tasks during the last half of the present session.

Two years ago the general assembly approved the new civil practice act, simplifying and modernizing the trial of law suits. The same work is now being done on criminal law.

At a meeting here Saturday, officials of the state bar association and the state's attorneys association are scheduled to give the new criminal code their final approval and turn it over to the legislature for introduction next week.

Kerner Endorses It.

Attorney General Otto Kerner today gave his endorsement to the revision, saying:

"It is quite an improvement and I am highly in favor of the new code. The changes will help us materially in combatting the crime situation."

"As a step in advance, I would vote for the bill if I were a member of the legislature."

The Illinois criminal code has not been devised since 1874. Most of the changes were recommended at Governor Horner's January conference on crime suppression and are the result of a long study by the bar association, the judiciary and prosecutors.

The new code would make changes in both the substantive and procedural portions of the criminal law in an effort to lessen delays, reduce technicalities and make justice more swift and certain.

No More Grand Juries.

Some questions have been raised concerning the proposed abolition of grand juries, under which would be substituted informations filed by the state's attorneys in place of the present indictments. For general investigations, a board of inquiry of seven members would be provided by the bar association proposal.

Among other revisions, the new code would provide six classifications of crime, increase penalties for habitual violators, revise regulations regarding probation and parole, speed up the selection of juries and, as in the civil practice act, give the supreme court the power to make regulations governing all state courts.

Bills for the abolition of grand juries and for a limitation on the right of any judge to grant a writ of habeas corpus, regardless of jurisdiction, are already before the legislature.</

DO YOU AGREE?
By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

MANY of us would be much happier than we are if we could find something more interesting to think about than ourselves.

Each of us may choose between enjoying life like a game of enduring it like a grudge—it is up to us which we take.

A handicap can be used as an excuse for laziness or cowardice, or it can become a stimulus to do something worth-while.

To get on with people we must like them, take an interest in their affairs, praise them, and never treat two people alike.

Half of our trouble comes of wanting to have our own way, and the other half is due to failure to face life as it is.

We are rich if there is always some one who wants us, who lives for our success, and who believes in us to the uttermost.

A great part of the burdensomeness of life arises from the feeling of our comparative isolation from one another.

The self-indulgent cynic is bound to be a pessimist; he cannot believe in any final good because he cannot believe in himself.

Live meekly, basely, grossly, and your outlook on life, as upon human nature, will inevitably be base, mean, and gross.

The trouble about a bad deed is what life loses value for him who does it—he cannot remain on good terms with himself.

Lovers seldom suspect how much vanity and selfishness is mixed up with their love, and bereavement, too, may be self-centered.

One great-souled man can put courage into a thousand; one mean-hearted fellow can sometimes demoralize a multitude.

A spirit of restless discontent can spoil any life, just as a spirit of friendliness and thoughtfulness can sweeten it.

Set your foot on fire with noble and unselfish aims and most of the vile things that afflict us will vanish like a summer fog.

All men are always praying, said Emerson, and all prayers are answered; therefore be careful what you pray for.

Foster Reese Is Happily Surprised

It is just too bad when a man accepts an invitation to attend the show and then his pleasant plans are all upset. Foster Reese expected to spend the evening of his birthday, Friday, March 22nd, with a quiet game of dominoes, later attending the show with his wife and a niece, but the members of the Birthday Club had decided otherwise and shortly after 7 o'clock they met near the house and walked in on their unsuspecting victim, taking him completely by surprise.

There were nearly 40 guests in all, members of the club, relatives and friends. General conversation was enjoyed for some time, then several tables of cards were arranged and 500 was played; dominoes also. At 11 o'clock Mr. Reese was invited to light the pretty pink candles on his birthday cake, and in spite of a good deal of teasing and tricks played on him he stuck bravely to it till the last one was lighted, then blew them out with one breath and that's a sign of—well, just what ever you want to take it as a sign of. The birthday song was then sung, and the delicious buffet supper was enjoyed.

Opening the gifts was, of course, the grand finale. In this Mr. Reese was assisted by Mrs. John Selgestad who displayed the presents, some useful, some amusing and read the messages accompanying them. Mr. Reese expressed his thanks to the givers and he really seemed to enjoy the evening quite as much as though he had gone to the show.

The guests departed at a late hour, wishing Mr. Reese many happy returns of his birthday.

Club to Sponsor Music Festival

As announced in the Telegraph last week, the Dixon Woman's club will again sponsor a musical festival. Two performances will be given, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. May tenth is the date chosen and the affair will be given in the Masonic Temple. Last year the festival proved a very great success, and so this year the club has broadened out somewhat, in order to include all branches of music, vocal, instrumental, choir and choral groups. It was decided best to class the contestants into three groups: Beginners, juniors and seniors; in this way the judges will be better able to classify each contestant.

All over the country these amateur contests are being held and with great success. It is bringing to the public musicians who might otherwise never have an opportunity of being heard. It may also prove beneficial to them in their future chosen vocation.

The Woman's club hope to have the cooperation of all Dixon music teachers and musical organizations and they feel it is only right to make this a local affair. Each year the Dixon Woman's club plan to do more to encourage good music in our city.

Dixon has many fine musicians and is a music-loving community, so let us all join together in making this May Festival a wonderful success.

The program in the afternoon will be devoted to the younger artists, vocal and instrumental. The evening program will be for the older contestants.

The small admission fee of twenty-five cents will include both programs. Any information required will be given by calling Mrs. Harry Edwards, telephone 1580 or Mrs. Elizabeth Jenks, telephone K1267.

Entertained For Miss D. Richardson

An unusually delightful social event occurred Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Richardson, when their daughter, Doris, who will soon become the bride of Floyd R. Derby of Freeport, was honored with a tea and a miscellaneous shower.

Mrs. Mark Smith, Jr. of Dixon and Mrs. Earl Breyman of Rochelle were the hostesses.

About fifty guests were present and they enjoyed the following program: Joan Wellman, Margaret Sproul, Marilyn and Mark Smith, Jr. piano solos; Walter Jr. and Spencer Wellman, vocal solos; violin solo, Yvonne Derby; accompanied by Philippa Flach; musical reading, Mrs. W. S. Frost, accompanied by Miss Lura E. Lee.

Mrs. S. L. Shaw read an interesting account of the origin of showers for prospective brides. Misses Lee and Nattress were the winners of prizes awarded in games.

The gifts were then brought in to the bride-elect in fancy decorated umbrellas and baskets were opened and passed around for inspection by the guests. There were many beautiful artistic and useful articles with best wishes for happiness and prosperity from the donors. The shower included scarcely any duplicates, which is unusual in such a large collection. The guests were then invited to the dining room where a variety of delicious refreshments were served with Mrs. F. H. Mynard and Mrs. W. J. Leake pouring tea and coffee. The dining table was graced with a fragrant bouquet of sweet peas.

A snap shot of the party was taken on the lawn during the afternoon. Among those present from a distance beside the hostesses and those appearing on the program were Mr. and Mrs. George Derby, Freeport; Mrs. Harry Olmstead, of Berwyn; Jean Breyman, Rochelle; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wellman, of Ransom; Mrs. A. W. Sperling, Fisher, Wis.; Harry Patterson, Mrs. F. C. Grase, Mrs. Wilbur Breunier, Mrs. W. A. Crawford, Miss Alice Thornton, Franklin Grove.

D. U. V. TO MEET THURSDAY NIGHT—The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will hold their regular meeting in the G. A. R. hall Thursday night. The usual picnic supper will be served at 6 P. M. Mischakoff and Wittich Amazed and Thrilled Audience Last Eve in Marvelous Recital at Temple

The concert held at the Masonic Temple last evening, sponsored by Orville Westgate of Dixon, in which he presented Mischa Mischakoff, famous young artist and concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, was one of the most outstanding events in local musical circles, in some time. Mischakoff stands with the truly great, and absolutely above criticism.

The audience was a large, appreciative one. Towns from a radius of many miles were represented in last evening's music loving audience: Sterling, Morrison, Ashton, Rochelle, Oregon, Rockford, etc. Ashton alone sent thirty-one people.

Mischakoff, playing his valuable and mellow toned Stradivarius, "Adam," opened the concert with "Ciaccona," by Vivaldi and immediately enthralled his listeners with his magnificent playing. His accompanist, Doris Wittich, is one of the best today, and she plays in such sympathy with Mischakoff that the combination is a rare treat, one seldom vouchsafed to those outside of the great musical centers. Wittich is said to "anticipate her artists, yet never intrudes."

Genius Revealed
In the Tchaikowski Concerto, the innate genius and charm and talent of Mischakoff were revealed, and from then on there were long spaces of time during the concert in which the ticking of a clock would have boomed like a cannon, so quiet was the large concourse of listeners. Mischakoff took his audience by storm, by his warm, vibrant personality and his marvelous playing.

At the special request of Mr. Westgate, himself a violinist of note, Mischakoff played Kriesler's "Caprice Viennois." This beautiful and appealing number followed the brilliant "Rondo, Opus 53," by Schubert-Friedberg. The applause at the conclusion of each number amounted to an ovation.

Mischakoff was very generous with encores. A delicate and lovely bit was, "The Girl with the Flaxen Hair," by Debussy; "Birdsong" was as fanciful and musical as its title. It was written by Glinka. The audience would not be appeased until several more encores had been given, including a Russian dance and a Spanish dance, the latter by La-Palla. Probably the most enchanting encore was the Valse in A by Brahms.

Each selection of the program was played just as it should have been played—with superb musicianship and a warmth of feeling which immediately won the hearts of all, for it seemed that Mischa's violin had a message for each listener.

After the concert Mr. and Mrs. Westgate entertained a few friends informally with a buffet supper and Mischakoff and his charming accompanist attended and met and made many friends.

Mr. Westgate is to be congratulated on bringing to Dixon a star of Mischakoff's magnitude and he deserves the commendation of all. The Troubadettes, the Eastern Star and the High School Orchestra members sold tickets and will benefit thereby.

CONTRACT New Rules Explained

(The third of a series of four articles on the new contract bridge code, effective March 31, by an outstanding official of the game, deals with penalties for violations of laws during the play period.)

By ALFRED M. GRUENTHER (Written For The Associated Press.)

THE PLAY PERIOD

New Terms—Four new terms are used in this period. "Defender" replaces the cumbersome "opponent of declarer." "Penalty card" is used instead of the less descriptive and inaccurate term "exposed card." The "dummy" is now "declarer's partner" and the "dummy hand" is known as the "faced hand."

Penalty Card of a Defender—If during the play a defender improperly exposes a card, such card becomes a penalty card. A penalty card must be left face up on the table until played, and whenever it is the turn of the defender who owns it to play he must play it, unless the play of the penalty card would constitute a revoke.

This law involves a slight change from the old exposed card law in that heretofore the owner of a penalty card was not required to play it at the first opportunity. Instead, the card remained subject to call by declarer unless, in the meantime, the owner had a chance to play it. In actual play, the new law will make little difference, since the alert declarer has always forced the play of the exposed card if it was to his advantage to do so. If he failed to call it, the owner would usually play it anyhow in order to avoid the danger of being required to play it later at an inopportune moment.

Complicated Law Replaced
Lead out of Turn—By declarer from either hand. Either defender may require declarer to take back the lead and to lead a card of the same suit from the correct hand. This is the same law which has been in force many years.

By a defender: Declarer may either treat the card led out of turn as a penalty card, or call a lead from the defending side as soon as it is the turn of a defender to lead.

The law relating to an out of turn lead by a defender takes the place of old Law 46, which was so complicated that few tournament directors have been able to agree on its exact interpretation. As it is rewritten, there can be no doubt as to its meaning.

Rewritten For Clarity
The Revoke and Established Revoke—The substance of the revoke law has not been changed, though it has been rewritten in the interest of clarity. The penalty for an established revoke is still two tricks.

These are transferred from the tricks won by the revoking side after its revoke (including the revoking trick). To clear up a point which has long bothered contract bridge players, assume that South is playing a hand and that West revokes to the third trick which is won by his side. The revoke becomes established and the revoking side does not win any more tricks. In that event, the penalty is paid by the transfer of only one trick. However, if an additional trick is won by the revoking side the two-trick penalty must be paid.

Another long disputed point which is now specifically covered in the laws is illustrated by the following situation: Declarer revokes to the sixth trick and now spreads his hand claiming the balance of the tricks, in this way he does not actually play to a subsequent trick, and for that reason there has always been some question whether the claim establishes the revoke. This point is now settled affirmatively in Law 29.

Penalty Less Severe

Inspecting a Quitted Trick: If a quitted trick is looked at before the end of the hand, the opponents score 50 points in their premium score.

The old law provided that the non-offending side might call a lead, but it has been realized for some time that this penalty is too severe. To be forced to make a specified lead frequently results in a severe penalty—entirely out of keeping with this relatively minor, though annoying, offense.

Rights of Declarer's Partner—Under the new laws, declarer's partner is given certain definite rights as follows:

(a) Reply to a player's proper question.

(b) When requested, discuss questions of fact or law.

(c) Question declarer regarding his possible revoke.

(d) Draw attention to a defender's irregularity and ask declarer if he knows his rights.

He has no rights in addition to the foregoing, and he loses all of those if he intentionally looks at the face of a card in a player's hand.

Objected to Limitation

It will be remembered that under the 1932 code, dummy (i. e., declarer's partner) was permitted to protect his partner against possible revokes, and that was about the extent of his privileges. Contract players objected to this drastic limitation, so the law making body has again given the dummy player a voice in the proceedings.

One important change involving declarer's partner which may be missed in a casual study of the law involves the revoke rights if declarer's partner leaves the table during the play of the hand. Under the old code if dummy left the table the adversaries could not claim the penalty for an established revoke unless one of them had questioned declarer before the revoke became established. This protection provision has now been repealed so that if declarer's partner leaves the table, the declarer is fully liable for any established revokes made during his absence.

Tomorrow Lieutenant Gruenther will explain the new scoring.

Nurses Class Given Demonstration Tuesday, State Hospital

All conditions of mental and nervous cases were demonstrated and explained to the Nurses class of Katherine Shaw Betha hospital who attended the first annual clinic on these cases at the Dixon State Hospital yesterday.

The nurses in company with Dr. A. F. Moore, were conducted through the psychological department of the State Hospital where Miss Ann Polkowsky demonstrated the giving of intelligence tests to mental defectives and where the class also witnessed the different methods of teaching the blind including the Braille system.

Drs. H. E. Marcellus, Rawleigh and Zoltan Glatter conducted the party on their tour and the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital expressed its appreciation today for the courtesy of Dr. Warren G. Murray, managing director of the hospital, and to Drs. Marcellus, Rawleigh and Glatter, for their cooperation in making the clinic possible.

Culbertsons Take Lead in Tourney

New York, March 27—(AP)—A decided turn in the fortunes of war has given Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson the lead in their contract bridge battle with Mr. and Mrs. P. Paul Sims with the match only two days old.

The Culbertsons went today into the third day of the 150-rubber bridge marathon with a lead of 1750 points, the result of a clean sweep of five rubbers played last night. Each team has won seven rubbers.

A difference of opinion as to the cause of their success developed between Culbertson and his attractive wife, Josephine at the end of last night's play.

Mrs. Culbertson contended the turn in luck was due to a rabbit's foot she received during the dinner recess and which she had with her during last night's playing.

"Nonsense," replied her husband. "It was the system."

It may have been possibly a swing of aces and kings to the Culbertsons, for in the 30 hands played last night, the Culbertsons held 71 aces and 64 kings against 49 aces and 56 for the Sims family.

Mrs. Ed Franks Happily Surprised

Games and music occupied the pleasant hours, and the guests left many rice gifts as tokens of esteem, including a purse of money with best wishes for future happy birthdays. Relatives from Sterling also attended.

A VOICE IN THE WILDERNESS

Freeport has broken into the news columns of a certain number of central and southern Illinois newspapers recently, in a vigorous and challenging manner of which all but a small handful of Freeporters are blissfully unaware. The publicity thus given to Freeport, quite beyond anything it deserves, is the result of the activities of our fellow citizen, Mr. O. S. Hitchner, in re-opening his machine-gun fire on the University of Illinois and its expenditures. Machine-gun fire seems the right figure of speech to use, because the accusations are sent out thick and fast, with deadly regularity, rat-tat-tat.

Mr. Hitchner's campaign began some years ago, when he was the president of the Stephenson County Taxpayers' association, long since inactive. Of his own initiative and at his own expense, Mr. Hitchner commenced an assault on high taxes. Presently he had virtually restricted the field of his attack to the state university. Paying for the stenographic work and postage out of his own pocket, he proceeded to direct a torrent of inquiries at former President Chase and other university trustees and officials. In one memorable ten day period, he sent no less than thirteen letters to the unhappy Mr. Chase, and the university declares that, for a considerable time, it assigned two individuals to give their full time to the job of preparing answers and sending them back to Mr. Hitchner.

As far as one can judge from the present campaign, Mr. Hitchner never paid much attention to the answers he got from Urbana, for the accusations made long ago are being repeated today. He evidently gave the university executives no benefit of the doubt, but decided that they were lying or evading the truth at every turn. Therefore, while he continued to bombard them with questions, he seems to have received their replies with profound skepticism, and perhaps tossed them directly into his waste-basket. After which, he dictated another letter.

One of his chief objections, for example, is that the university "spent $350,000 of the taxpayers' money to build a skating rink for the students." The university answered that it did not spend one penny for the rink, which was built by the Students' Athletic association, out of the proceeds of athletic contests, and presented to the university. This reply either amused or enraged the doughty campaigner, for he ignored it completely, and repeats the charge again today.

Another point he raises is that the university spent $12,000 (Mr. Hitchner's own estimate) on investigations of the ravages of moose lice in Canada. The university again replied, with great amazement, that it never spent one cent. The National Research council allotted about $350 for the investigation of moose lice, which was made by one of the faculty on a vacation in Canada. But Mr. Hitchner continues to cite the $12,000 expenditure for running down the moose louse.

The latest exhibit to come to this desk is a copy of the "Pitt County Republican" which contains a spread in which an editorial from the "Champaign News-Gazette" is placed side by side with data on alleged wastage at Urbana compiled by Mr. Hitchner and Mr. C. O. Ellis, of Grayville, Ill. In the disclosures, one finds again the skating rink and the moose louse. This spread is labelled "A Deadly Parallel." The logic of this caption escapes us, as the editorial is a curious and irrational defense of the state university, coupled with a violent attack on Governor Horner, whom the bewildered writer conceives to be the arch foe of the university. It seems to have no bearing on Mr. Hitchner's material, save perhaps to reveal that the reputed enmity of Governor Horner is as mild as skim milk compared with the vitriolic indignation of Messrs. Ellis and Hitchner.

To all of the Hitchner campaign, the state legislature has been singularly inattentive. This is unfortunate. Charges so serious as those he has made deserve a thorough investigation. The state senate is the logical agency to make such an investigation. Mr. Hitchner and the university trustees should be summoned to Springfield, questioned in the presence of one another, and the results of the inquiry given to the public. Either Mr. Hitchner's campaign is a mass of libel and nonsense, or else it is a profoundly serious affair.

To our own legislators from the 12th district, Senator Boeke and Representatives Franz, Bingham and Laughlin, we wish to say that we sincerely hope they will bring the matter to the attention of Springfield. If Mr. Hitchner is indeed a voice crying in the wilderness, we should think he has been living long enough on locusts and wild honey, and should be invited to dinner. If, on the other hand, the university is able to refute the charges conclusively and finally, the skating rink and moose louse should be allowed to belong to the ages, a fate to which they seem already dedicated through the natural processes of depreciation.—Freeport Journal-Standard.

DAILY HEALTH

FLOATING KIDNEY
Some of the names used by the laity for certain medical conditions are very picturesque, but they are liable to give a totally erroneous picture of the conditions they name. Floating kidney is an illustration in point. From the name one is led to imagine the kidney floating about like a cake of soap in a bathtub. The reality is far removed.

That which is called a floating kidney is more fittingly described as a movable kidney. Normally, the kidneys are held in place by a surrounding layer of fat, which in turn is fixed to the wall of the body, in the region of the small of the back. The normal kidney remains stationary. But in certain abnormal conditions, the kidney may slip from its place and may be loosened from its attachments. Under such circumstances it can frequently be felt or palpated through the body wall, and can in fact be moved about from place to place.

The fact that the kidney has been loosened from its moorings does not in itself imply disease. What-ever damage is associated with this condition arises from the resulting obstruction to the outflow of the urine secreted by the kidneys. Such obstruction most commonly results from a kinking of the ureter, that is, from a twisting of the tube which runs from the kidney to the bladder. Interference with the outflow of urine produces back pressure upon the kidney with consequent damage to its structure.

Hence, the physician is concerned not with the movement of the kidney but the obstruction to the urinary outflow. An English surgeon has wittily summarized the matter by saying that "the treatment of movable kidney is the treatment of its obstructed outflow. A kidney without demonstrable means of support need not be subject to the same laws that are applied to tramps and vagabonds."

The condition of movable kidney is frequently associated with what is known as general viscer-optosis or "falling" of the internal organs.

TRAUMATIC SHOCK

The study of traumatic shock, that is, the shock resulting from injury, may well be used to illustrate the ways of medical research. For while many persons today appreciate the achievements of modern medicine, few have any real idea of how these achievements are gained.

The condition of shock is difficult to describe in precise terms. The individual in shock appears to have lost both the will to live and the momentum of his living processes. Scientists frequently speak of shock as "an insult to the body" in response to which the body just "gives up." The individual collapses, his heart action is feeble; his breathing is shallow; his blood pressure is low, and he is unresponsive to stimulation. It is shock that accounts for many a case wherein "the operation was successful but the patient died."

Naturally, the subject of shock has been extensively studied and three hypotheses have been advanced to explain it. One charges shock to the absorption of poisonous materials from injured tissue. Another ascribes shock to the disturbance in the fluid balance in the body, due mainly to the loss of fluid into the affected area. The third hypothesis maintains that shock is due to the disrupting effects of the stimuli brought to the central nervous system by the damaged nerves.

Many ingenious experiments have been performed in an attempt to test the validity of these hypotheses. Apparently each explains a portion of the complex condition called shock.

To the validation of the third hypothesis, namely, that which charges shock to the disrupting effects upon the brain of stimuli received through damaged nerves, some interesting contributions were recently made. These show that

SMALLER TOWNS WIN TEMPORARY PATTLE IN NRA

Re-opening of Shoe Code Has Been Postponed Indefinitely by Board

The NRA has rescinded its order re-opening the shoe code, postponing indefinitely the hearing which had been set for April 16.

Announcement of this effect was made following a conference between Division Administrator Connelley, Deputy Administrator Mangum and a number of Missouri and Illinois Congressmen. At this meeting, the middle western representatives informed NRA officials that they would oppose any attempt to eliminate the existing population and geographical wage differentials from the code.

The decision resulted in a declaration by Congressman Connelley of Massachusetts that he would appeal to the President to have the scheduled hearing take place. Connelley is one of several Massachusetts representatives who have been fighting to amend the shoe code, contending that its present provisions have contributed to the migration of shoe factories from his state.

Three Investigators
In announcing the order the NRA made known that an impartial committee of three is to be appointed to investigate conditions in the industry, clarify the issues involved, and make recommendations based on its findings.

"The NRA, in refusing to submit to the demands of the Eastern Massachusetts groups that the code be drastically amended—over the united protest of the industry's Code Authority—has followed the only just course open to it," declared A. M. Burton, secretary of the St. Louis Shoe Manufacturers' Association.

"Any other decision," he said, would have been contrary to the written law. Just as the proposed amendments would violate sound economic laws.

Small Towns Win
"The shoe manufacturing towns of the middle west have won their fight to retain the wage differentials—a differential based on the small town's lower living costs, which, in fact, justify an even greater differential than is contained in the code."

"They are to be congratulated on their victory. The loyal newspapers, the public spirited citizens, the chambers of commerce, the alert Senators and Representatives who formed a common front to face this threat to the welfare of the shoe industry in the middle west cannot be too highly commended."

"The Massachusetts representatives have stated that they will not accept this action of the NRA as final. We shall not meet this challenge lying down. From this time on, we must watch every development and be ready to move instantly to protect our interests should another such interest arise."

The giant shouted, "Bless my soul," as smoke came out of the big bowl "I see no wondrous trick in that. What is it all about?"

"Just wait," replied the Hindu. "You will see what strange things I can do. Look, now, at all the Tinymites, and you will agree, no doubt."

The smoke then disappeared out of sight and every little Tinymite now had a wee chick's body. What a funny sight to see!

The giant eyed them for a while and then he simply had to smile. "Hello, there, chicks," he shouted. "You're as cute as you can be."

At first the tots were frightened. They did not seem to know what to say. Then Scouty looked up at the Hindu. "What a joke," he said. "When you said you would show us tricks, we didn't know you'd make us chicks! I am very glad, however, that I still have my own head."

"Now, what are we supposed to do? Just stand and furnish laughs for you? As far as I am concerned, sir, please make me a lad again."

"Oh, don't get all upset, my son. I merely thought I would have some fun. I entertain myself, you see, with such tricks, now and then."

"Of course all wee chicks like shelled corn, and if you will not look so forlorn, I will run and get a lot for you. That ought to be a treat."

"Aw don't be silly," wee Scouty said. "I do not have a wee chick's head, and although I am hungry I don't want shelled corn to eat."

By now, the giant saw the joke. His laughter almost made him choke. And then he said, "I have never seen the likes of this before."

"Don't worry, Tinytes. I will see that you are made what you used to be. Right now, I think the old Hindu has another trick in store."

The "SACRILEGE" of FREEDOM

SPAIN once held its colonies in America in such firm grip that when at last there was an attempt to gain freedom, some of the very subjects who would have been fitted by the movement cried it was a sacrilege and refused to help. And so the first attempt to free Salvador from Spanish rule failed.

This took place in 1811, and was led by six men, among them two priests. Their revolt lasted less than a month, but they gained dismissal of the despotic governor and amnesty for themselves. Ten years later Salvador gained independence.

This "Conspiracy of 1811" is pictured in one of Salvador's 1924 issues.

ESOPHAGUS-LESS BOY MAY BECOME AN "EXPERIMENT"

New Information Concerning Taste May be Gained by Physicians

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Robert Earl Linsig, the Newburgh baby without an esophagus, may grow up to be the first "experimental" human to show what taste really is.

His physician, Dr. W. Barton Harris, who expects that an artificial rubber esophagus will be made for young Robert when he is about seven years old, says that in the mean time "it is a question whether he will develop a sense of taste."

Until the artificial throat is provided, the boy must be fed by tube directly into his stomach. Inquiry among medical authorities discloses opinions as to a variety of possibilities.

It is well known that a combination of factors determine taste. There are first the taste organs. Second, the sense of smell, to which some authorities attribute nearly all the quality called "flavor."

Taste is "experience." Taste, however, is more than these two. It is also "experience." That is where the interesting experimental possibilities come in.

People admit that taste is mostly "experience" when they speak of acquired taste. They do not ordinarily think of all tastes as equally acquired. But medical men say they probably are.

When Robert gets his esophagus he will have well developed bodily needs for food, but may have little experience in how anything should taste. He may be like deaf children who have the power of speech, but do not learn to talk because they are unable to hear voices, even their own.

It is probable, however, that Robert will have his sense of taste developed even during artificial feeding. When beef is fed through his artificial tube, bits of beef, enough for the flavor, can be placed in his mouth.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Reagent's substitute. 25-cent drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

INDIANS MAY PROVE LOOP CHAMPIONS

Batting Order Is Replete With Fire-works

(NOTE: This is the 15th of a series analyzing major league baseball prospects.)

By ALAN GOULD.
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

New Orleans, La., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Regardless of where he lands the Cleveland Indians this year, Big Chief Walter Johnson is rapidly organizing a tribe that may dominate the American League, once it develops its full strength.

It is not yet fully equipped to go on the war-path, but it will be.

Right now it lacks the infield balance and the grade of back-stopping essential to make the most of its superlative right-handed pitching staff. The batting order carries explosive power, with more long range guns than the champion Detroit Tigers.

With a Cochran or a Fox behind the plate, the Indians would scalp the rest of the league without much difficulty.

The premature attempt to put Johnson "on the spot" this spring by booming the pennant prospects of the Indians abruptly was checked by the club's loss of Bill Knickerbocker, sensational shortstop and balance wheel of the team's kid infield.

Knickerbocker was stricken with appendicitis a fortnight ago. He is out of the hospital but the Indians will be lucky if he can return to the lineup by the middle of May and luckier if he can return to the lineup by the middle of May and luckier if he then can duplicate his brilliant 1934 performances.

Need Replacement
The club is trying desperately to get an experienced replacement but rival clubs are not eager to be of assistance in the emergency. Their sympathy is excusably synthetic in a league that anticipates a wide open race this year.

There should be no doubt of the Indians running 1-2-3 throughout the season with the power generated by such fence crackers as Vosmik, Averill, Campbell, Trosky and Hale, together with such talented pitchers as Harder, Pearson, Hudlin, Hildebrand and Clint Brown.

Johnson has played no favorites in revamping his team. His judgment has been vindicated in converting Hal Trosky from an outfielder to one of the league's hardest hitting first basemen.

Despite criticism he kept Knickerbocker at short last year until the youngster found himself. This spring he benched the veteran Will Kamm, shifted Sammy Hale from second to third base and put the youthful Louis Berger in the key-stone spot. Berger will be a freshman in sophomore company.

If and when Knickerbocker takes his regular spot, the Cleveland infield will be the youngest in either league, averaging little over 22 years, but it will be one of the rangiest and hardest hitting quartets.

Pytlak Handles Pitchers
It will be up to the diminutive Frank Pytlak and either Glenn Myatt or Bill Brenzel, acquired from Kansas City, to handle a pitching staff that has great equipment.

Mej Harder, ace of the right hand stars, should excel his splendid 1934 record and rival New York's Lefty Gomez or Detroit's Schoolboy Rowe for league pitching leadership. Monte Pearson and Willis Hudlin, the best golfer on the team, have the stuff to be 20-game winners. The veteran Clint Brown and Oral Hildebrand, off from for various reasons last season, look ready for comebacks.

Vosmik steers clear of further trouble with his hip. Johnson will have no outfield worries. Vosmik, Earl Averill and Bruce Campbell, obtained from the Browns to play right field, all pack a 300 punch. Milt Galaster, a capable under-study last season, and Ab Wright, recruited from Minneapolis, have clinched the reserve roles.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

By the Associated Press.
St. Petersburg, Fla.—The New York Yankees' purchase of Pat Malone from the St. Louis Cardinals brings the veteran right-hander back under the wing of the manager for whom he did his best work.

Malone pitched fine ball for Joe McCarthy when Joe was managing the Chicago Cubs. McCarthy tried to buy him last December when the Cubs first put him on the market, but had to wait to get him via the Cardinals.

At St. Petersburg—New York (A) vs. House of David.

Allyn Stout, obtained by trades for relief duty, has been impressive and the younger crop including Clydel Castleman and Frank Gabler have been taking bad thumpings in exhibition games.

Orlando, Fla.—Linus (Junior) Frey, young Brooklyn shortstop, has given up right handed hitting entirely. Frey, who used to be a switch hitter, has been batting left-handed against all kinds of pitching after the Dodger board of strategy decided he could make the best use of his speed by hitting from the side nearest first base.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Philadelphia Athletics, poised for another game with the Birmingham Barons, which they hope will make it four victories in a row, are wondering about this mascot business.

Enroute here, Second Baseman Dibs Williams was given an Australian sheppheard as the squad's mascot. The A's won yesterday's tilt 5 to 4 in the tenth, but Williams will be out of action several days because the mascot bit his hand.

Winter Haven, Fla.—Their winning streak doubly blasted by two defeats by the Baltimore Orioles today with three new moundmen picked for a tilt with the Montreal Royals.

Selected Harry Wilson has selected Harry Gumbert and Roy Hansen as the first six men and picked Earl Stratton for reserve.

Sarasota, Fla.—Lefty Grove, Red Sox enigma, will pitch in Friday's game with the Phillies.

The news leaked out last night and it was expected the gate would be large for this first 1935 appearance of Grove.

Grove's left arm has been nursed along quietly and without too much ado. He has been the most obscure player at the Sox training camp.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Buck Jordan appears the most determined of the six Braves who have so far refused to accept the Tribe's terms.

Manager Bill McKeechne says that if he is given the proper inducements he may let Jordan go as there are three other men on the team who can cover first.

Yuma, Ariz.—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox is more convinced than ever that he must rely on his veterans to carry most of the pitching burden this year.

Although Dykes has given his hurling rookies more than an average chance this spring, most of them have fallen down. But for that matter, so has almost everything else in one of the most dismal spring seasons in years for the club.

Los Angeles—If the defeats keep on piling up, about the only thing the Chicago Cubs can boast for their production of baseball in the spring series on the west coast this year is a triple play.

Freddie Lindstrom, Woody English, and Phil Caveretta pulled the triple play yesterday, but Seattle made the Cubs look like a class C ball club by hammering out a 14 to 3 decision.

Pensacola, Fla.—The Cleveland Indians are setting out to prove their nearly season statements that to hit like big leaguers you must have big league pitching.

Manager Walter Johnson was pleased to watch his sluggers make 17 hits for 32 bases against the Giants yesterday, including two home runs, two triples and four doubles.

San Bernardino, Calif.—Despite the run of bad weather which hampered their training, the Pirates are saying goodbye to San Bernardino with every player in tiptop shape.

After beating the White Sox 9-0 in the farewell game, the Bucs moved on to Yuma, Ariz., today to meet the Sox in another contest.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—This one-run business has Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns tearing his hair. When the Browns defeated Buffalo 4 to 3 yesterday it was the team's seventh game this spring to be decided by one run.

While the Browns have won six of them, Hornsby recalls only too well the 41 games lost last season by a one run margin.

Bradenton, Fla.—Dizzy and Paul Dean, who "twisted the Tigers' Tail" in the last world's series, will dish it up for the Cardinals in their exhibition game today with Detroit.

Sale of Pat Malone yesterday to the New York Yankee indicates either that a deal is pending for a new hurler or that Manager Frank Frisch is satisfied his rookies will come through.

Lakeland, Fla.—The Detroit Tiger regulars, rested by a day on the bench while their reserve and rookie mates slugged down the Rochester Internationals, 11 to 1, prepared to return today to the exhibition wars. They will meet the St. Louis Cards at Bradenton.

Three hit pitching by Hatter and the veteran Marberry made it an easy win for the Tigers yesterday.

Tampa, Fla.—Fresh from a 5-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox, yesterday, the Cincinnati Reds were back on their home training lot today, primed for resumption of their series with Toronto Maple Leafs.

So far, the series stands two to one in their favor.

1934 FINALISTS CLASH TODAY IN GOLF FEATURE

Augusta, Ga., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., and Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., finalists in last year's tourney, clash today in the feature match of the quarter final round of Augusta's fifth annual women's invitational golf tournament.

Miss Bauer defeated Miss Miley last year for the title. The defending champion advanced with little difficulty yesterday while Miss Miley had sterner opposition.

Peggy Wattles, medalist of Buffalo, N. Y., was paired today with a local player, Miss Isabel Ogilvie.

The two golfers who turned in upset victories yesterday, 18-year-old Lilly Harper of Norfolk, Va., and Deanne Van Landingham, of Charlotte, N. C., faced less formidable opposition in the quarter finals.

Miss Harper, Virginia state champion who ousted Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., yesterday, was paired with Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis.

Miss Van Landingham, conqueror of the former national champion, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia, was pitted against Miss Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C., Carolina's champion.

Some Hot Warfare

The crowds have seen so much hot warfare they thought last night's weekly show tame when every match ended in a knockout. Some of the battles, most among unknowns, would have stunned the Garden clientele.

"Jack Dempsey is to boxing what Col. Lindbergh is to aviation. It would be as silly to keep Dempsey down to the level of refereeing as it would be to ask Col. Lindbergh to drive an elevator."

"Put Dempsey in charge of boxing in the Garden and every fighter in the country will flock there to fight for him. Boxing would be stimulated everywhere. It would be back off the canvas in a month. There's no charge for this advice."

It is tentatively planned that all engines procured by the army air corps after July 1, for single-engine planes, will be equipped with fuel injectors instead of carburetors.

American automobile tourists spend approximately $3,000,000,000 annually.

Some Hot Warfare

The crowds have seen so much hot warfare they thought last night's weekly show tame when every match ended in a knockout. Some of the battles, most among unknowns, would have stunned the Garden clientele.

The kids are paid off in cash, as soon as the fights are over. Some of them haven't managers, but they don't seem to need anyone to protect them. Martin won't be lured from here again.

"The Garden taught me a good lesson and paid me a good salary while I'm in it," he says. "I'm just a small town boy who's learned when he is well off."

To show he has no ill feeling, he has this suggestion of make to the Garden.

"Jack Dempsey is to boxing what Col. Lindbergh is to aviation. It would be as silly to keep Dempsey down to the level of refereeing as it would be to ask Col. Lindbergh to drive an elevator."

"Put Dempsey in charge of boxing in the Garden and every fighter in the country will flock there to fight for him. Boxing would be stimulated everywhere. It would be back off the canvas in a month. There's no charge for this advice."

GARDEN PUTS BRADDOCK UP AS BAER FOE

Schmeling-Baer Bout May Be Held Out of State

New York, March 27.—(AP)—The has-been of little more than a year ago, James J. Braddock, sat enthroned today in the heavy-weight driver's seat, placed there by official ukase of the bewildering rulers of fightdom, the New York state athletic commission.

Using the same sweeping authority they employed in ruling Braddock no fit opponent for Walter Neusel just 14 months ago, the commissioners declared the New Jersey veteran the No. 1 challenger for Max Baer's heavyweight title.

They informed Madison Square Garden it would have to abandon its plans for sending Max Schmeling against Baer for the title here in June.

If the Garden wants to hold a Baer-Schmeling bout in this state, the solons said, Schmeling first will have to eliminate Braddock, technical winner of the Garden's ill-fated heavyweight elimination tournament.

Proved Boomrang

That tournament, incidentally, proved to be the boomranger that wrecked Jimmy Johnston's well laid plans for a championship battle between the two Maxes. The commission ruled that since the Garden had advertised the tournament as a series of eliminations designed to find an adequate opponent for Baer it would have to stand by the implied promise to match the winner against Baer.

The solons gave the garden one "out." They said they would approve a Baer-Schmeling match if the ex-champion from Germany would meet Braddock first.

Neither Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, Garden president, nor Johnston would indicate just what course the Garden would pursue, but it seemed elementary that there were only two alternatives:

1. To persuade Joe Jacobs, Max Schmeling's manager, to send the Teuton against Braddock in a final elimination.

2. To take the Schmeling-Baer fight out of the state.

Jacobs, unless he changes his mind, will never permit Schmeling to fight Braddock. Not only does he believe that Schmeling's technical knockouts of Neusel and Steve Hamas entitled him to a title match but he likewise hold a contract with the Garden for a June meeting with Baer.

As to the possibility of shifting the site of the bout to some other state, Garden officials are not yet ready to commit themselves.

Although Braddock astounded the boxing world with his decisive 15-round victory over Art Lasky, the 3 to 1 favorite, last week, few experts would concede him a chance against Baer.

Hoffman Scoffs at Choice

Anil Hoffman, Baer's manager, openly scoffed at Braddock's designation as No. 1 challenger. "Braddock wouldn't draw flies," he said, referring to the Jerseyman's potentialities at the gate.

Even should the Garden attempt to match Braddock with Baer, the champion and his manager would hold the whip hand. Under the terms of his contract with the Garden, Baer must approve the challenger selected to fight him.

Meanwhile Braddock, possibly doubting he will be matched with Schmeling or Baer, signed a tentative contract to meet the winner of the Primo Carnera-Joe Louis heavyweight bout to be staged by Mike Jacobs and the Twentieth Century club at the Yankee Stadium in June. Braddock will have the right to withdraw from the contract should a match with Baer or Schmeling eventuate.

May Vault Into Net

Limelight Again Soon

San Francisco, March 27.—(AP)—If the weakened back which caused her to forfeit the 1933 national singles championship shows sufficient strength to withstand tournament pressure, Helen Willis Moody may spring back into the tennis limelight, she indicated here today.

The former world's champion, whose sudden withdrawal in the third set of her title match with Helen Jacobs created such a furore in net circles, is back on a daily practice schedule here, and she has hopes of at least entering a few small local contests before long.

Private aircraft of United States registry hereafter will not need special authorization for pleasure or tourist flights to Chile, in accordance with an agreement signed by these two countries.

United States bus lines transport 2,000,000,000 passengers yearly, which is equal to one bus ride for every person on earth.

Twenty Grand Off for Britain

Tagged for new conquests, this time on the British turf, Twenty Grand, Mrs. Payne Whitney's great runner, is shown here in his quarters on the American Banker, shortly before sailing time. His trainer, William Brennan, shown at the halter, plans to pit his star against the best of the English mounts.

Pitching talent will not be lacking.

"The most promising recruit working out with the squad is a big right hand 'finger' by the name of Cameron, a recent arrival in our community."

Once Big Time.

The new pitcher, according to the Menard Time, was once in organized baseball. It gives his record with several clubs, one of them a class AA team.

"He hung around that club for quite a spell," the Time reports. "In some way, his foot must of slipped, and he got sidetracked out this way."

Cameron is slated to be the team's "number one hurler," especially as "it is the announced intention of the management that there will be no outside help for the team this year."

Six seasoned veterans from last year's team, described as "hold-overs," form the nucleus of the 1935 "Cubs."

DUST CALLED BLESSING TO MISSOURIANS

Kansas Storms Gave Mis- souri Better Soil Content

Kansas City, Mar. 27.—(AP)—One man's loss becomes another man's gain when the "black blizzards" sweep the plains states.

The loss—involving soil and crops—on one knows.

Agricultural authorities are reluctant to place an estimate in dollars and cents on the losses suffered by farmers and stockmen as a result of the devastating dust storms which have ravaged sections of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska this spring. There are too many things to take into consideration, and the best they can say is "millions."

The gain—recorded in increased soil fertility of neighboring states—no one can answer that either.

Other Damage Included

Of the agricultural experts polled A. R. Duncan, statistician of the Oklahoma board of agriculture, was the only one to venture a guess. He placed the figure at $10,000,000 for the state, but in addition to dust storm damage, he included drought and winter freezing.

Duncan said the wheat and oats crops in 10 western counties of the state were "virtually destroyed."

"In that district there will not be more than enough wheat raised to furnish seed," he said. He estimated other crops in the state at about 70 per cent of normal.

That is one state's loss.

Here is another's gain.

Blessing to Missouri

"Dust storms may be a nuisance to housewives, but they are a blessing to Missouri farmers," said W. A. Albrecht, professor of soils at the University of Missouri.

The recent dust storm in this state did little or no damage and enriched the land with an average of probably 250 pounds to the acre of top soil blown from western Kansas and Colorado. The dust particles had been ground by wind action to "silt size," and are highly suitable for agricultural use. This dust averages 4600 pounds of nitrogen to every 2,000,000 pounds. The richest Missouri bottom soil does not have a higher nitrogen content.

AUTHORITATIVE STORY.

(Editor's Note)—The livestock and grain producing community of Springfield, Colo., has been a pivotal point in the sweeping dust storms that have disrupted the livelihood of the farmers and ranchers in portions of three counties.)

By HARVEY McKINIS.

Mayor of Springfield, Colo., Written for the Associated Press.

Springfield, Colo., March 27. — (AP)—The same question comes to us from every side: "How are you going to meet this problem?" And the answer is still largely a matter of rain.

The government's soil erosion control plans may prove our ultimate salvation. Petitions asking federal authorities to start such control measures here are now being signed and we are looking forward hopefully to the government's response. But I don't think any kind of planting will be effective until moisture restores the soil to a productive basis. Even the prairie grass cannot grow without it.

Erosion control will, however, take care of itself to some degree if moisture is forthcoming.

Snow Possible Harbinger.

(As the mayor wrote, fresh swirls of silt appeared but with hardly the velocity of previous storms. The mercury was dropping, however, and flakes of snow in northern Colorado were looked to as possible harbingers of moisture.)

Our people, on the whole, are not in a panic in meeting the troubles of the drought and prairie farming. Most of the settlers are from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas—veterans of earlier struggles against the same elements. The condition of our banks through the last three years is proof enough that these farmers and cowmen are self-reliant and eager to hang on if they have fighting chance.

Much Exaggeration.

There has been much written about our situation here in Baca county that is true but much has been exaggerated and some reports are inaccurate.

The dust hasn't killed anyone yet so far as we can tell. The six people who died a few days ago may have been affected somewhat by the dust laden air, but certainly it did not cause their deaths.

We are not trying to face the problems of long drought and the dust storms in a booster spirit that says: "All's right in this best possible of all worlds."

Baca county and its adjoining sections have a real problem on hand. But we can and will overcome it all if we can get a fair share of rain this spring. The whole outcome of our present emergency must depend upon rainfall.

To meet the keen competition of American planes, France is effecting a program of modernization of equipment on her commercial air fleets.

The department of air commerce contemplates building a small aircraft engine adaptable for use on tiny planes, at low cost. This motor rated at 100 h. p. is said to cost but $5 a horsepower, or about half the present amount. Batteries should be inspected at least twice monthly.

The Pennsylvania Automotive Association has recommended to the state legislature an amendment which will require the tilting or depressing of the higher beams of automobile headlights upon meeting or passing other vehicles. There is one car for every 25 inhabitants in Denmark.

A new plan under consideration by the U. S. Navy department would require every candidate for the naval academy at Annapolis to qualify physically for training in aviation and be taught to fly during his midshipman training. Look over the advertisements in this paper

An agreement between the United States and Great Britain provides for reciprocal recognition of certificates of airworthiness for imported aircraft.

DERN VISIT TO PHILADELPHIA STIRS DISORDER

Two Quakers Arrested for Protesting Secretary's Talk

Philadelphia, March 27—(AP)—A threat of legal action against police for arresting two Quakers was thrown today into the controversy over the subject of war which has marked almost every hour of Secretary of War George H. Dern's visit to Philadelphia.

Even before the war secretary arrived here yesterday the protests began. Long after he finished a plea for a larger army, navy and air corps, pickets led by Miss Mildred Young of the Friends Yearly Meeting packed back and forth on the sidewalks in front of the hotel where he spoke.

In his address, delivered as a part of the 17th anniversary celebration of the establishment of the Philadelphia ordinance department Dern termed the United States army of today as "microscopic" and comparable with those of Turkey and Portugal.

He was the guest of the Philadelphia Post Army Ordnance Association and the Chamber of Commerce, which jointly sponsored an exhibit of armaments on Reburn Plaza opposite City Hall.

Alleged Disturbers
 The two Quakers, Matthias Shallock, 20, and John Adams, 21, were arrested on the outskirts of a crowd of several thousand spectators when they reportedly created a disturbance, and distributed anti-war handbills. These bore the names of several friends' and other peace organizations.

Overhead soared an airplane, chartered by the Pennsylvania Committee for Total Disarmament, which dropped other leaflets. The threat of legal action was made by Sophia H. Dulles, executive secretary of the latter organization, who said she had consulted an attorney after reports that the pickets had been "manhandled" by police.

In his address Dern called government ownership of munitions plants impractical.

Appellate Court's Decision Relieves J. J. Cole of Amboy

The Appellate court has affirmed the decision of the circuit court of Lee county relieving John J. Cole, executor of the estate of Catherine McConnell Wesley, from all liability by reason of the failure of the Amboy State bank.

Catherine McConnell Wesley, by her will, after making certain bequests, gave the bulk of her estate to the Catholic church in Amboy. During the administration of her state, Mr. Cole, the executor, withdrew money from one bank and deposited some forty-seven hundred dollars in the Amboy State bank, awaiting time to distribute the estate. When filing his report, he attempted to turn over his claim against the Amboy State bank to the Catholic Bishop of Rockford who refused the same and attempted to hold Mr. Cole personally liable for the amount. The circuit court of Lee county, in an opinion by Judge Sheehan, relieved Mr. Cole from any personal liability. Hyer & Gill, attorneys representing Bishop Hoban, took an appeal to the Appellate court, which has today sustained the finding of the Circuit court of Lee county relieving Cole from all liability. Cole was represented by Robert L. Bracken and J. C. Ryan of the firm of Dixon, Devine, Bracken & Dixon.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

For the last six months the prices of farm products have been going up. It has made us all feel better.

But suppose you walk into a city grocery store with me. Ahead of us is a woman who has no garden, who has no cellar filled with home canned foods. Everything she puts on her table she has to buy in a store—and she has to pay cash for it. Her husband has a job, but he is getting no more than he did a year or two ago, when she could buy eggs, for instance, for a cent apiece and all other food prices were in proportion.

For the last few months every time she has gone to the store the prices have been higher than they were the time before. In spite of all her efforts to economize, her grocery bill is going up. Multiply this woman by hundreds of thousands in cities all over the country and you get an idea of what these increasing prices mean to the persons who have to buy the things you produce.

Two women can't be together fifteen minutes before I overhear them talking about how the price of food is going up. They are going back to their war time practices of using meat and butter substitutes.

Meat Substitutes Used
 Food retailers have told me that sales of certain meats are running 40 per cent less than they were a year ago. People are buying less poultry and eggs.

"But they are still eating," I insisted. "What are they buying instead?"
 "Spaghetti and macaroni," they told me. "The sales of those two products have increased almost as much as our meat sales have dropped off. And people are eating a lot of fish, too. It's cheap and there is such a demand for it at these low prices that every available fishing boat is being sent to sea."

In February 45 million pounds of oleomargarine were sold—more than twice as much as was sold during the same month a year ago. And much of this margarine is made from foreign oils. A lot of butter is being imported. I understand it can be bought for 14 cents a pound delivered in New York. Of course, there is 14 cents a pound off on it, but even with that it is still less expensive than the butter which is produced in this country. If you have been wondering what brought the market on butterfat down, that's it.

Poultry Still in Demand
 The prices of poultry and eggs did not come up as fast as the price of some other farm products and, while you may have been disappointed at the time, you can see now that it was a fortunate thing for the poultry raiser.

If they had gone up too fast, people wouldn't be eating them. Now, although they aren't eating as many eggs as they were when they could buy them for a cent apiece, there is still a ready demand for them—and for poultry, too. And in comparison with other farm products, they can be produced rapidly.

If you put good poultry and eggs on the market, there is always someone to buy them, as long as the price is not out of line with those of other food products.

Sincerely yours,
 FRANK PRIEBE, 119 North Franklin, Chicago, Ill.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

PLEA FOR PIERCE

To the Voters of Dixon Township
 After looking over The Telegraph and seeing the announcement of the candidacy of Vade Pierce for Supervisor, we take this opportunity of giving to you some true facts of this man, something that every voter of Dixon township should know.

To you, Mr. Taxpayer, if you are going to support an economical man for supervisor we assure you that you cannot go wrong on Vade Pierce. Why? You know whoever you elect must face these problems of depression and there must be a certain amount of money spent. This man's idea is to spend $1 to save $5.

Many times he has suggested to the officials of the township to spend the money in a way that the needy may get the benefit, instead of someone who didn't need it. In other words, why not give the needy this work and pay them for it instead of paying to keep them and also pay someone else, too, who didn't need it? Folks, we must wake up! It is high time we get men into office that will look to the people's interest of all concerned.

To you aged folks who are in tough circumstances who may need advice on your problems, we can assure you that you will get the most courteous advice that ever a man could give. That's the kind of a man Pierce is!

To you Mr. Unemployed it is useless to tell you what this man is for. You know that a man that can deal with the laboring men and get along with them, also advise them as he has you through all this depression, should be your choice, and no other.

To you, Mr. Laborer, this man is also a laborer. He knows what it is to work for a living and we know that you can rest assured that he will have your interests at heart.

As citizens of this township we feel that it is our duty to see that the voters of our community know what a wonderful man this Pierce is and the facts surrounding him. We ask you sincerely if you do not know this man get in touch with him. Get some of his great ideas on these difficult problems. If you can do this, talk to some of the people that do know him. We know when you have looked up this man's record and his wonderful ideas on the problems that are going to confront the next Supervisors, that on the 2nd of April you will go along with us to the polls and elect Vade Pierce!

Elmer Smith, Russell King, and Arthur Stewart.

THAT SO DIXON TENT

To the People of South Dixon who think we have plunged from winter into midsummer: I would like to say I have always been a law-abiding citizen; have never been arrested for creating a disturbance at a public school, for bootlegging or for anything else; and if I had moved from one farm to another without paying my rent, or had gone into bankruptcy to avoid paying my debts, or had given title to my wife so it could not be seized for my debts, my wife, my children and myself might not now have to be living in a tent which through the kindness of J. H. Pine, we have been allowed to put up on his premises.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MILlicent Graves, secretary to GEORGE DRIMGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. In panic she rushes away and registers at a hotel under an assumed name.

JARVIS HAPP, distinguished-looking stranger, recognizes Millicent and offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty parlor where she is transformed into a brunet. Happ takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. His son, NORMAN HAPP, warns Millicent against his stepbrother, ROBERT CAISE, and tells her a mysterious woman in black ermine has some power over his stepmother.

Millicent falls asleep. A noise awakens her and she finds a note under her door reading, "The woman in black ermine is here."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

MILlicent stood staring at that fateful typewritten note. She had no means of knowing who had sent it, nor could she tell whether the steps she had heard in the corridor were those of a man or a woman.

She wondered if Norman had sent her this message. Surely he was the only one who knew of her interest in the woman in the black ermine coat. But how about Jarvis Happ? Jarvis was very, very shrewd, and it was apparent that he knew more about what was going on in the house than he let on. Moreover, he, above all others, knew of her connection with George Drimgold's murder.

But how about Robert Caise? He, too, had surmised her secret. He, too, must know something of the woman in black.

Millicent shrugged her unclad shoulders and, with the gesture, realized that she was chilled. She ran to the closet, found a robe and flung it about her. She went to the window and looked out.

It was, she saw, commencing to rain. Drops were beating against the window and, as she looked, she saw the rain grow in intensity until, within a few minutes, a rising wind was driving it in torrents.

She turned once more to study the note. Why had she been informed of the presence of the mysterious woman? What was she supposed to do? Was it Jarvis Happ who had left the message and who had expected she would perhaps hunt up the woman in the black ermine coat, accuse her directly of complicity in Drimgold's murder?

MILlicent knew only one thing. No matter who had sent the note or what was expected of her, she was determined to try to find out something about that woman in black.

Having reached this decision, Millicent Graves flung off her dressing gown and started dressing hastily.

Millicent, donning her fur coat, slipped out into the hallway.

The heat in the house was low, and the corridors felt chill and gloomy. A night light burned at one end of the corridor, giving sufficient illumination to enable her to see objects, although not as distinctly as would have been the case had there been more illumination.

Now that she was in the corridor, she realized the immensity of the house, realized something of the nature of the task with which she was confronted. It was going to be necessary for her to find a mysterious woman in a black ermine coat who was somewhere in the house.

Where?
 She remembered Mrs. Happ had proudly exhibited the suite which she occupied, and Millicent felt certain the woman she sought would be somewhere within that suite of rooms. Norman Happ had mentioned a maid, but so far Millicent had not met her. When Norman had told her of the maid, Millicent had concluded that the woman must be absent, perhaps on leave. Had she returned?

THROWING her shoulders back, giving her chin a determined tilt, Millicent locked the door of her room and set off bravely down the corridor. She turned to the left, followed the corridor toward the place where she knew Mrs. Happ's rooms were situated.

She was still some distance from the door of the suite when she heard the sound of voices. Abruptly a door opened. Millicent flattened herself against the wall, gave a little gasp as she saw a woman clad in black ermine step into the corridor. For a moment Millicent thought the woman was coming toward her. Then, with a shrug of the shoulders, a last murmuring comment to the person on the other side of the door, the woman in black turned away from Millicent.

Millicent heard Mrs. Happ's voice saying, "Please be very careful. I think he's employed someone to shadow you."

The woman in black gave a low throaty laugh. A door closed. The woman in the black ermine coat walked rapidly down the corridor, away from Millicent.

Millicent hesitated a moment. Dare she run and accost the woman? Could she accuse her of being implicated in Drimgold's murder? Such an accusation would, of course, alarm the household. It would also establish Millicent's own identity beyond doubt. No, there was only one thing for her to do. That was to shadow this woman and find out where she lived, then seek to learn something of her connection with the murder. Perhaps, having found out where the woman lived, she could trade information with Jarvis Happ.

Millicent waited until the woman had rounded a corner in the corridor. Then she sped swiftly and silently down the thick carpet, pausing at the corner to peer out into the other corridor.

SHE heard a door slam—a door, apparently, located about half way down the long corridor, but there was no one in sight.

Fighting back her disappointment, Millicent ran along the corridor, trying to locate the door that had slammed. She came on a back staircase which she had almost forgotten, a staircase which she remembered ran to the kitchen and then to the garage. She leaned over the banister and looked down.

She caught a glimpse of a black fur coat.

Running down the stairs, Millicent heard a door slide back, heard the purr of a motor.

She threw caution to the winds, ran rapidly, and was in time to see a car pull out from the garage, a black sedan, with the curtains in the rear tightly drawn, so that it was impossible to see anything of the person or persons who occupied it.

She could almost have touched the car as it slid out into the darkness and, for one wild moment, she thought of rushing out to try and climb to the spare tire, holding to the trunk rack, but she realized the futility of doing this and swung her eyes to the license number, determined to remember it.

The figures seared themselves into her memory—9J3418. She looked around her in the garage, wondering if she could find a car in which she could follow.

She saw the big limousine in which Jarvis Happ had brought her to the house. She wondered if, by any chance, keys were in the ignition. She flung open the door of the car, reached inside and groped with frantic fingers.

There were no keys in the car. Disappointed, she slid back toward the door, only to freeze suddenly into instant immobility.

Someone clicked a light switch, and the garage blazed into brilliance.

ILLINOIS MINE WORKERS WATCH APPREHENSIVELY

Fear Suspension April 1; Wage Agreement is No Nearer

West Frankfort, Ill. March 27.—(AP)—With southern Illinois coal mines working virtually full time for the past two weeks, miners and business men alike are awaiting with fearful expectancy, the first of April when the present working agreement between the Illinois coal operators and the miners union will expire.

Business is already experiencing sharp reverses as the zero hour in the mining industry draws near with no progress reported from Washington, where union officials and representatives of the coal operators are endeavoring to agree upon the terms of a new working agreement.

The fact that mines have been working full time for several weeks, with railroads and coal companies reported to be storing coal by the thousands of tons, leads many observers to the conclusion that a shutdown in the industry is almost certain. Such preparations for a

"Synchronomatic" Dodge, Has Improved Engine, New Front Suspension, Streamlined Bodies

Everything contributing to driving and riding comfort, plus "synchronomatic" front suspension and an interesting line-up of novel mechanical features, seems to be provided in this 4-door Touring Sedan model.

Roominess and unified decorative treatment distinguish the new Dodge 2-door Sedan. The body lines show a pleasing aerodynamic silhouette, further emphasized by the rakishly tilted windshield, clean sides and beaver tail back.

Many improvements are offered in the Dodge high-compression "Red Ram" engine. Due to the development of a vacuum spark control, the high compression causes no knocking with ordinary fuels.

The engine has larger water jackets, spray-cooling of the exhaust valve inserts, air-cooled generator, automatic choke, automatic vacuum spark control, automatic carburetor, heat control, thermostat water circulation control, oil filter, air cleaner, impulse neutralizer, and other features.

Fresh, trim lines, and a long list of interior refinements and conveniences are offered in this new Dodge Coupe in which roominess, baggage-carrying facilities, speed, power and ease of handling are a few of many outstanding qualities.

Among mechanical features are the new Dodge "synchronomatic" front suspension, synchro-silent transmission, patented floating power engine mountings, and many other outstanding details.

Of intense interest among innovations distinguishing the 1935 Dodge models, is a new front suspension. The system incorporates a rigid front axle double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, leaf springs of twice the usual softness, and the Dodge ride "levelator" operating between rubber cushions and controlling the spring action.

The new suspension, termed "synchronomatic" marks another forward step in riding comfort and gives the desired smooth ride, free from rolling or sway.

suspension would not otherwise be made by interests supposed to be on the inside, they contend.

Take No Chances

On the other hand, those who are inclined to take a more optimistic view, point out that the railroads have always bought heavily as the end of a contract period in the coal industry drew near. Dependent upon coal as they are, the railroads could not afford to take chances on a suspension with no coal reserve supplies on hand.

The fact that the sales organizations of the coal companies, as in the case of impending labor difficulties in other industries, have taken advantage of the uncertainty of the future to stock their trade up with coal as a precaution against a possible shortage and higher prices in case of a strike, is likewise credited with the fact that the coal orders have been pouring in from big users for the past few weeks.

Another factor that also leads many to entertain the hope that there will be no general suspension of operations in the Illinois coal industry is the struggle between two opposing miners of America, for control of the industry in the state.

Since the Illinois operators are reported to be willing to renew the present wage agreement for another year. It is considered doubtful that the miners will at this time stage a determined fight for their demands for a six hour day and an increase in wages.

And yet the near approach of April first, with no word of encouragement from the conference table, makes the southern Illinois coal field where a major portion of the state's coal is produced, a fertile field for fears and forebodings.

Although they are working every day and will soon draw what will perhaps be the largest pay of the year, the miners are spending only for the bare necessities of life.

Jim said he'd smoked a lot of cigarettes in his time, but he'd put Chesterfield up in front of any of 'em when it came to taste.

... "and they ain't a bit strong either," is the way Jim put it.

That was the first Chesterfield I ever smoked. And I'm right there with him, too, when he says it's a ding good cigarette.
